

Benefits of Membership

About the Drug Information Association (DIA)

DIA is a nonprofit, multidisciplinary, member-driven professional association of approximately 18,000 members who are involved in the discovery, development, regulation, surveillance, or marketing of pharmaceuticals or related products. Committed to the broad dissemination of information among its members, with continuously improved professional practice as the goal, DIA serves members in a neutral, global environment that operates independent of the influence of any one organization or authority.

DIA members work in every facet of the drug development and related healthcare industries, including the pharmaceutical industry, government and regulatory agencies, academia, contract service organizations, biotechnology firms, device manufacturers, and related organizations.

DIA is led by its volunteer-based Board of Directors and executive management team. The Association is headquartered in Horsham, PA, USA, with offices in Switzerland, Japan, India, and China.

There is also a professional administrative staff that manages day-to-day operations in execution of the strategic and fiscal plans directed by the Board.
